

Obama Refuses ANY Proof Anwar Al Awlaki Involved In Terrorist Activity

From The Desk
Toby A Robinson
Bernard Werner
Australia People In Government Corruption &
False Flag Terrorism

Greetings People

We all know by now Anwar Al Awlaki in Yemen was an CIA – Pentagon asset, via fact he meet at the Pentagon months after 11th Sept 2001 Attacks and a few other occasions.

But listen to White House Press Secretary offer NO Evidence what so ever the man was involved in Terrorism Activity.

Obama Admin Refuses To Offer ANY Proof Anwar Al Awlaki Was Involved In Terrorist Activity

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=86MvHLMf25g>

Lucky we have a good memory, because we can prove these events which this lying scumbag say the guy was involved and behind were False Flag events.

President Barrack Obama You're a Liar!

White House Secretary You're a Liar!

I will now prove these people liars, and American Mainstream Media guilty also of pushing these Terrorism Lies.

Evidence 1)

First lets deal with the 2009 Christmas Day Bomber story.

- A) There was eyewitnesses who saw exactly what went down, two American Citizens, Lawyers actually, the FBI interviewed them and discounted their "EYE WITNESS" testimony, so we have the FBI Officially tampering with evidence!
- B) Amazing Security at the Airport is run by an Israeli Company which holds the contract, same as 11th Sept 2001 Attacks an Israeli Company held the Security Contracts there which let the supposedly hijackers through.
- C) This Airport already had Scanners but the young Bomber was walked through.
- D) Michael Chertoff company he works for was the one benefiting of Scanners to be placed at American Airports
- E) These Scanners to be placed at American Airports were on order before 2009 Christmas Day Event went down, so all it needed was an event like Christmas Day to justify putting them into Airports around America.

Can people see How Fascist United States of America has become?

Can people see How corrupted your politicians have become to use Terrorism as a reason to buy Security Type Machines?

And the winner Michael Chertoff with a big Sales Bonus from the Company for selling the machines to Uncle Sam, and the Company who gets the contract to supply the machines.

SCHIPHOL AIRPORT HAD THE NAKED SCAMNERS, BUT WITNESSES REPORT CROTCH-BOMBER ALLOWED TO GO AROUND THEM.

In summary, security officials discounted the Haskells' report by claiming that the video tape at Schipohl showed no one assisting Abdulmutallab at the ticket counter or anywhere else.

The Haskells responded by saying, Show us the tape.

At that point, "Federal agents" spoke to ABC's Brian Ross and said, Well, maybe there was a sharp dressed man and here's what he did.

We know that federal law enforcement quietly allowed the Haskell's story to stand through the statement to Brian Ross.

Since key elements of the story have not been formally investigated, we don't know if Abdulmutallab went through normal check-in or if, as witnessed and indicated, he somehow bypassed normal security requirements.

Scanners – The Prequel

How did we get to the point of full body scans at airports, the massive personal intrusion that represents, and the tens of millions spent for machines that irradiate us as a consequence of merely flying from here to there?

The proximate cause is the attempted bombing of a December 25, 2009 Northwest airlines flight.

Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab, an engineering student, attempted to mix, then detonate a bomb as Northwest Flight 253 from Amsterdam made its descent to Detroit's Metropolitan Airport.

Mr. Abdulmutallab somehow got on the flight with the chemicals undetected, hidden in his underwear.

There was furor followed by calls for tighter airport security.

Specifically, Michael Chertoff, former Bush Homeland Security chief, claimed full body scanners were the solution.

One thing led to another and here we are today.

Full body scanners are in 68 airports and planned for 1,000 across the United States by the end of 2011.

Those who refuse the full body scans will be subject to "pat-downs, which include searches of passengers' genital areas."

The Missing Link

Right after the Christmas 2009 bombing attempt, two United States citizens, frequent world travelers, spoke up about what they'd both witnessed prior to the flight departing from Amsterdam's Schipohl International Airport.

Kurt Haskell and his wife Lori, attorneys from Taylor, Michigan, were sitting near the ticket counter waiting to board Flight 253.

They saw two men approached the counter and speak with the agent on duty.

One of the men was later identified as Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab, the Nigerian who would later haplessly try to blow up the Northwest flight.

The other was a well dressed man in his 50s (the sharp dressed man) who they took to be an Indian national.

"While Mutallab was poorly dressed, his friend was dressed in an expensive suit," Haskell said.

He says the suited man asked ticket agents whether Mutallab could board without a passport.

"The guy said, 'He's from Sudan and we do this all the time.'"

Mutallab is Nigerian.

Haskell believes the man may have been trying to garner sympathy for Mutallab's lack of documents by portraying him as a Sudanese refugee.

The ticket agent referred Mutallab and his companion to her manager down the hall, and Haskell didn't see Mutallab again until after he allegedly tried to detonate an explosive on the plane. MILive.com Dec 26, 2009

Then Haskell's told their story to U.S. agents investigating the bombing attempt while they and other passengers were held at the Detroit airport.

Shortly after being released from the airport, Kurt Haskell posted a comment on a MILive.com news thread.

This was the first of a number of media encounters where the story was told consistently.

A summary article in Wikipedia provides the narrative of the official response to the Haskell's story.

"The Dutch counter terror agency" reviewed 200 hours of airport security tapes and announced their conclusion that Abdulmutallab had no "accomplices," effectively questioning the accuracy of the Haskells' report.

Kurt Haskell then challenged authorities to release the 200 hours of tape: "Put the video out there to prove I'm wrong."

Failing to take up that challenge, federal law enforcement officials in the U.S. leaked the following:

Federal agents also tell ABC News.com they are attempting to identify a man who passengers said helped Abdulmutallab change planes for Detroit when he landed in Amsterdam from Lagos, Nigeria.

Authorities had initially discounted the passenger accounts, but the agents say there is a growing belief the man have played a role to make sure Abdulmutallab "did not get cold feet." Brian Ross, ABC News, Jan. 2

In summary, security officials discounted the Haskells' report by claiming that the video tape at Schipohl showed no one assisting Abdulmutallab at the ticket counter or anywhere else.

The Haskells responded by saying, Show us the tape.

At that point, "Federal agents" spoke to ABC's Brian Ross and said, Well, maybe there was a sharp dressed man and here's what he did.

This rejoinder by "Federal agents" is an endorsement of the reasonableness of the account by Kurt and Lori Haskell and, by implication, an admission that their account is correct.

Would Scanners Have Stopped Abdulmutallab?

We know that federal law enforcement quietly allowed the Haskell's story to stand through the statement to Brian Ross.

Since key elements of the story have not been formally investigated, we don't know if Abdulmutallab went through normal check-in or if, as witnessed and indicated, he somehow bypassed normal security requirements.

We don't know who the sharp dressed man is.

We don't know the full extent of the system breakdown that allowed all of this to happen.

We do know that the bomber's father, Umaru Mutellab, one Africa's wealthiest individuals, told U.S. intelligence authorities that his son was a terrorist a month before the bombing.

We also know that Abdulmutallab's name was placed in a terrorism database a month before the Christmas flight.

However, his name was not transferred from that database to a watch list of 14,000 essentially nominated for the no-fly database, nor was the name transferred to the 4,000 member official no-fly list.

In the furor over the event, a clear voice emerged with a solution to future problems like that presented by the underwear bomber.

Michael Chertoff, long time Bush national security official offered these unqualified assertions on December 27 in the Washington Post and December 28 in the New York Times:

"This plot is an example of something we've known could exist in theory, and in order to be able to detect it, you've got to find some way of detecting things in parts of the body that aren't easy to get at," Chertoff said.

"It's either pat-downs or imaging, or otherwise hoping that bad guys haven't figured it out, and I guess bad guys have figured it out."

Washington Post, Dec 27

"In recent days, Kip Hawley, the former T.S.A. director, and Michael Chertoff, the former homeland security secretary, have called for the rapid installation of a new generation of whole-body scanners that can look underneath clothing to search for hidden weapons or explosives, which officials consider the single most significant aviation threat today..." New York Times, Dec. 28, 2009

From that point forward, the focus on preventing future terror threats to air travel focused on full body scanners.

On January 15, 2010, the New York Times appended the December 28,, 2009 article with this statement:

"Articles on Dec. 28, 29 and 30, about the apparent bombing attempt on a flight to Detroit, discussed the use of full-body scanners for airport security.

They cited Michael Chertoff, the former secretary of homeland security, as supporting wider use of the scanners.

Mr. Chertoff has confirmed in several recent interviews that a manufacturer of the devices is a client of his consulting company.

That connection should have been noted in the articles."
Editors Note, January 15

Chertoff was caught red handed shilling for full body scanners in behalf of a company that was a client of Chertoff's consulting company.

He was busted in public by the New York Times editor.

What was the outcome?

Chertoff's original, self-interested assertion prevailed.

We have full body scans headed for 1,000 airports and, for those who don't want the radiation, the national security grope, invasive searches of the passenger's genital area.

Never mind the first hand eye witness accounts by Kurt and Lori Haskell.

Never mind the report by one of the most prominent public figures in Nigeria, the bombers father, that his son was a terrorist and the lack of decisive action on that tip off.

Never mind the never released 200 hours of Dutch security footage that could have proven without a doubt the existence of a facilitator, the sharp dressed man who accompanies the bomber.

All of this reveals a systemic defect in anti-terrorism activities, one that, if corrected, could have more efficiently and effectively prevented future terror threats everywhere by logical changes in policies and practices.

Instead of decisive action on this clearly documented problem, we now have full body scanners proposed by a Bush era security official with a clear conflict of interest.

Perpetual 9/11

The underwear bomber incident is, in some ways, 9/11 writ small.

A credibly identified terrorist is allowed to board U.S. commercial airliner with little scrutiny.

There is a tragic outcome.

Clear breakdowns in security are exposed, breakdowns that make no real sense to citizens – failure to put Abdulmutallab on the no-fly list, for example.

Congress and others fail to truly examine any of this, while the public is whipped into a fury.

Instead of a real solution, a serious, unflinching investigation into who was responsible and why crazy policies are in place that appear to coddle identified threats, we end up with a solution that makes little, if any sense – full body scanners.

Full body scanners share a common trait with the misdirected solutions to avoid a future 9/11 – the Patriot Act, illegal wiretapping, suspension of habeas corpus, torture, etc.

The scanners represent a major intrusion into our lives, a violation of our rights, a likely health hazard, and a major diversion from the real issue at hand – incompetence and/or deception in the handling of identified threats to the nation, individuals who somehow bypass the very security protections put in place to stop their attacks.

Evidence 2)

Once Again Fake Bin Laden Tape Released To Make You Think 2009 Christmas Day event was real

Christmas Bombing Audio Tape Lamest Yet

The new audio tape from “Osama bin Laden” taking responsibility for the idiotic and childish incident in Detroit where moronic Nigerian armed with a useless “bomb” is simply too much.

Now using audio tapes because, supposedly, nobody in Al Qaeda got a flash drive video recorder for Christmas is even more of a joke.

Please, with the hundreds of millions our Saudi allies have given to terrorists, a video camera the size of an Ipod might have been a nice touch.

Even funnier was releasing the audio, using algorithm software probably illegally downloaded off the internet, and giving it to Al Jazeera.

Pundit Debbie Schussell, former Mark Siljander (VT staff writer) staffer, has bitterly complained about the strong ties between Fox News and Al Jazeera.

Fox owner, Rupert Murdoch, is the most powerful "influencer" of the ultra-rightists in Israel.

Attempts by the press to present Al Jazeera of today as the "pro-terrorist" media it seemed like many years ago is an epic misrepresentation.

A further abuse, of course, is not only that we are no longer seeing the easily debunked bin Laden doubles whose video tapes were "mysteriously" released by SITE Intelligence.

The Rita Katz/Israeli group that seems to find them in trash bins behind delicatessens.

The "new" audio tape itself contains statements claiming credit for 9/11 in direct contradiction to the real bin Laden videos, the only ones authenticated.

If you wondered why the FBI doesn't list Osama bin Laden as a suspect in 9/11, I think you have your answer.

If they think the bin Laden “admissions” aren’t credible, I wonder who the FBI is investigating or if they have simply been told to mind their own business.

The terrorist incident itself is the last thing Al Qaeda would ever take responsibility for despite the claims by SITE Intelligence that they found an unnamed and unverified internet site that confirmed this.

Who in the name of all that is holy would want to take responsibility for an idiot who was led onto an American bound plane by passing around searches, customs and passport control in an airport run by an Israeli security company but who carried a “bomb” designed by a three year old.

Who would be so stupid as to try to pass off this childish tape when reliable witnesses saw the terrorist being led onto the plane in Amsterdam in a manner that required full cooperation from security personnel, passport control and the airline itself.

We don’t even have to go into the fact that the “terrorists” in Yemen that supposedly claimed responsibility were released from Guantanamo under the personal signature of Vice President Cheney in 2007 or that before the incident, the government of Yemen tied these individuals to Israeli controllers thru captured computers.

I am only thankful that the duped terrorist, or as Lee Oswald had said, “patsy”, was the moronic son of a long time Mossad business associate in Nigeria.

Mr. Mutallab, banker, but mostly head of Nigeria’s defense industry, DICON, managed almost entirely by Israelis, may have much more story to tell other than the one he told CIA Chief of Station on November 19, 2009.

Do we want to follow former Homeland Security director Chertoff, not only a Jewish activist but currently representing companies selling body scanners to airports and the mysterious ability for someone on worldwide terrorist watch lists to be escorted onto a US bound airliner without passport or search?

Billions in profits were realized almost instantly after this incident.

Companies tied to Chertoff, Israel and India were on the receiving end.

The only reliable information the world has on Osama bin Laden is that he was killed by American troops on December 13, 2001 and buried outside Tora Bora by his following, 30 Mujahideen.

At least 6 of these witnesses were alive at last check.

Since his death, every “leaked” video or statement has been timed for convenient electoral “terrorist” scares, been childishly unprofessional and has only worked to discredit Islam.

Every effort has been made by the MSM/corporate press to cover the facts behind the Christmas “bombing” and push the blame on everyone but the obvious culprits.

That effort was deemed so successful that now a brazen attempt to resurrect long dead Osama bin Laden to take responsibility for trying to set off a bomb with a flame igniter that could only be exploded using a blasting cap, is being made.

Is this an attempt to make Al Qaeda look stupid?

My name is Osama bin Laden.

I had a moron carry a defective bomb onto a plane full of Islamic families returning to Detroit, the most Muslim city in the west, as part of a terror campaign.

I chose a flight that connected from the Middle East so I could kill as many of the innocent faithful as possible.

Please excuse this and the dozen or other mistakes made but being dead has left me less sharp than I once was.

No, I do not work for the Mossad, they simply tape and distribute my interviews.

This is part of an agreement with my talent agent who is Jewish.

All talent agents are Jewish, ask anyone in Hollywood.

What do you expect, miracles?

10% of nothing is nothing.

For my faithful followers, I expect to be a regular on Californication next season on Showtime.

I'll be the guy with the beard who seems dead.

The second possibility, one designed for the "spiritual" crowd is this I am Osama, the ghost of Tora Bora.

Please give more money to Israel, vote to extend the Patriot Act and buy new airport scanners from the companies listed on my weekly newsletter distributed by SITE Intelligence.

Watch for more insane threats coming in the future and have a nice weekend.

Remember to stop eating pork.

Any group that could make 5 airliners outwit NORAD, the most advanced air defense system in the world, any group that could train terrorist pilots inside the United States itself with nobody catching on, and it gets worse.

Sources tell us that FBI Special Agent Stephen Butler may have "accidentally" been cashing checks for and paying rent for two of the 9/11 hijackers.

Can people who can get this kind of thing done put a moron on an aircraft at an airport secured by an Israeli company, "extremely closely" related to the same company that managed security at all of the airports used on 9/11?

When Michigan attorney Kurt Haskell and his wife witnessed the famous, "he has no passport, he is a Sudanese refugee, we do this all the time", incident in Amsterdam, only a phony bin Laden tape could make America forget, or so "they" hope.

Imagine our terrorist being taken to meet the security head for the "airline" with his "Indian looking" handler, bomb strapped to his underwear.

Think of this exploding moron and his handler and who they would have had to know to get past, not only airline security and the Israeli company guarding the airport but Dutch passport control as well.

Anyone with the power to load the "crotch bomber" on a plane with no passport could have put a nuclear weapon in luggage easier.

Nukes are seldom on watch lists or have parents running to the CIA reporting them as "terrorists."

Next time we are being lied to, please, have more respect.

Not everyone is as dumb as Fox News, CNN, the Wall Street Journal or the New York Times.

It is one thing claiming that poor, long dead Osama bin Laden runs terrorists in Yemen.

It is quite something else proving that he manages an airport in Europe or runs the Dutch government.

When US Senators can't get thru airport security without being detained, bin Laden's ability to get diplomatic VIP treatment for known terrorists makes him more than a threat, it makes him a magician.

We are thankful that nobody was seriously injured and that we can all laugh about this, maybe not all of us.

The people of Nigeria don't think it is funny.

Millions of Muslims aren't seeing the joke either.

Air travellers are having their bad moments also.

Some, however, have benefitted in a major way, politically, financially and militarily.

None of those people, however, are ever openly accused of terrorism.

People of America and the World the Mainstream Media is deliberately selling these politicians and Governments lies to push their agenda for The War On Terror

Evidence 3)

Times Square Bomb Hoax: Israeli Intel Group Shows its Hand

Who would have believed it?

Only days after a warning of an Israeli “false flag” bombing against the US “in the works” a massive car bomb is discovered in Time Square!

Better yet, though no intelligence organization in the world could discover anyone claiming responsibility for this embarrassing failure, SITE Intelligence, a group rumored as the “voice of the Mossad” has placed the blame on the Pakistani Taliban.

This is the same group that has come up with numerous bin Laden “audio” tapes, seemingly, though tiny and nearly totally unstaffed, whenever it is convenient for Israel to point a finger at someone, magically Site Intelligence, run by former IDF soldier Rita Katz, whose father was executed as a spy by Saddam Hussein, makes another “unbelievable” intelligence find.

Site Intelligence finds are not only timely for Israel, when the world is focused on claims they have been planning a ‘dirty bomb’ attack to send the US to war against Iran, but always tend to support mysterious organizations run from the caves of the Afghanistan/Pakistan border region.

SMOKING GUN?

After the demise of Iraq, victim of falsified intelligence, no eliminated as an Israeli competitor, all eyes turned to Pakistan, Islam’s only nuclear state.

To establish footholds to destabilize Pakistan, a pro- Indian /Israeli government under President Karzai was installed in Kabul.

After 9 years, no evidence of any terrorist activity involved in 9/11 has been found in Afghanistan.

The great “net” meant to catch Osama bin Laden and armies of Al Qaeda terrorists came up empty.

Instead, we are told from reliable sources that Arab nations friendly to the US released criminals, transporting them to Afghanistan.

These “foreign fighters” actually little more than “extras” in a massive global theatre, kept the small US forces engaged for years, all without any purpose other than to establish that a terrorist organization must have been in Afghanistan because there certainly was one after 2002.

SURROGATE WARFARE ON PAKISTAN

In addition to installing a government that would work directly with Israel and India to organize terrorist attacks on Pakistan, funding to destabilize the oil and gas rich republics of the former Soviet Union had to be raised.

Opium production under the Taliban had been eliminated.

The new government quickly began a resurgence of opium production and heroin processing.

Aided by agents of the Indian RAW and Israeli Mossad, the governments of Kyrgyzstan, Uzbekistan, Turkmenistan quickly fell under the influence of the 65 billion dollar a year Afghanistan drug empire.

Though the drugs may have been from Afghanistan, multiple intelligence agencies from Israel, India, Turkey and others, aided by military contracting firms contracted to the CIA, carried this plan forward.

Continual news stories tying Pakistan to failures to suppress terrorism or rumorizing involvement in terrorism themselves flowed onto the world scene through western mainstream media, providing a clear footprint of a classic Mossad operation.

NOT SO “UNEXPECTED”

With the demise of Al Qaeda, an unnamed Taliban organization with a website only visible to one person on earth has now declared a mysterious and shadowy war against the United States, in New York City, a city under tight security but one with a very large Israeli/Mossad presence.

This was the same city where the “dancing Israeli’s,” celebrated 9/11 after filming the attacks.

Their advance knowledge of the attacks has been one of the many puzzle pieces tying Israel to 9/11.

However, it wasn’t until the “crotch bomber” of last Christmas that the breadth of Israel’s penetration of US security was demonstrated with Abdulmohammed’s attack tying directly to Tel Aviv.

Anyone who visits New York is aware that security there, especially in Time Square is the highest of anywhere in the world.

The intelligence organizations protecting New York, including the world’s best police force, leave only one organization as capable of this kind of effort, an organization with massive resources in the area, numerous Israeli/American assets and many residual relationships with Gulliani/Kerik/Bush era friends, friends conveniently “asleep at the switch” on 9/11.

TIMING

Recent intelligence leaks from several agencies have warned of an impending “9/11 style” attack on a high value target in the US and Israel.

Reports that a conventional bomb enhanced with nuclear material would be used.

With Iranian president Ahmandinejad and Secretary of State Clinton both scheduled to be in New York in the next 24 hours, and recent stories out of Israel trying to tie Iran to the Taliban, the issue of “timing” is a critical one.

ISREAL TIES TO PAKISTAN TALIBAN WELL ESTABLISHED

The group blamed in the Site Intelligence/Israeli report, the Pakistani Taliban has been responsible for hundreds of attacks in Pakistan, killing thousands of citizens.

However, reliable sources have tied this group directly to Mossad/RAW training camps inside Afghanistan and Balochistan.

The Pakistani Taliban have long been allies of Israel and India with 2000 terrorist trainers inside Afghanistan arming Pakistani Taliban terrorist group.

This has been confirmed, not only in direct briefings with the Pakistani ISPR and ISI but US military intelligence sources as well, who dispute the number of terrorist trainers, not their presence.

Terrorist groups inside Balochistan, the remote Pakistan province said to be a haven for Mossad attacks against Iran, claim to be headquartered in Israel.

These groups work directly with the Pakistan Taliban and are another indication of this current “stunt” turning back on non-Islamic planners.

ALWAYS THE SAME, “WHO GAINS?”

With Iran taking the propaganda offensive to the United States, a nation increasingly distancing itself from, not only the idea of supporting an Israeli attack on Iran, Israel is under pressure to reestablish itself as America’s partner in a long discredited “war on terror” that has been a huge embarrassment to the US.

With over 90% of America’s terror arrests turning out to be innocent bystanders, some tortured for years, untold numbers “disappeared,” Bush era failures have soured public support for hunting terrorist leaders who have increasingly been either captured by Pakistan or have been found to be negotiating with US forces.

With the signature of this bombing being so close to that of the “crotch bombing,” an attack with Israeli fingerprints from Nigeria to Yemen to Amsterdam, the “superfast” accusation against a Pakistani group was no surprise.

ONGOING INVESTIGATION/FOX “ISRAELI ASSET” NEWS ATTACKS OBAMA

With New York police discounting the Pakistan connection to the bombing immediately, Fox News has unleashed an attack on the Obama administration in a well orchestrated manner, accusing democrats of “failing to protect the American people.”

With both Site Intelligence and Fox News tied directly to Israel and the signature and timing of this attack showing clear Israeli fingerprints, Fox may be right.

America may be unable to protect itself from a nation still seen by most Americans as a close ally.

No other nation has the capability of such an attack or the influence to orchestrate the news, an act already in motion.

If any finger is pointing anywhere, Fox News is telling us "Israel did it."

Evidence 4)

Israel Knew About Yemeni Package Bombs Before They Were Discovered

<http://publicintelligence.net/israel-knew-about-yemeni-package-bombs-before-they-were-discovered/>

Transportation Minister Yisrael Katz hinted Monday that Israel received warning of the intent to send bombs to US synagogues on Thursday, before the plot was revealed to the public on the following day.

Minister Katz: Israel on bomb alert since Thursday

Transportation minister hints state knew about mail terror plot before it was publicly revealed Friday.

'Since Thursday Israeli representatives have been securing shipments to Israel from airports worldwide,' he says.

Transportation Minister Yisrael Katz hinted Monday that Israel received warning of the intent to send bombs to US synagogues on Thursday, before the plot was revealed to the public on the following day.

"Since Thursday Israeli representatives have been on location in sensitive airports around the world, securing shipments to Israel," he said ahead of a large-scale drill at Ben Gurion International Airport.

"Reality is catching up to us, and we must prepare in order to prevent the worst of all scenarios. We are prepared to deal with a threat now recognized by the whole world. All airlines that fly to Israel are obligated to use the best security measures."

Katz says he has been trying to persuade Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu to establish a national security agency, such as that operating in the US, which would "transfer the security of Israeli flights worldwide, as airlines like El Al want, to the hands of the state".

Israel on alert for package bombs

Israel's transport minister said Jerusalem received warnings of plans to send bombs to synagogues in the United States a day before they were discovered.

"Since Thursday, Israeli representatives have been on location in sensitive airports around the world, securing shipments to Israel," Yisrael Katz told Ynetnews.com Monday.

"Reality is catching up to us, and we must prepare in order to prevent the worst of all scenarios. We are prepared to deal with a threat now recognized by the whole world.

All airlines that fly to Israel are obligated to use the best security measures," he said.

Katz told the Web site he had tried to persuade Prime Minister Binyamin Netanyahu to set up a national security agency similar to the one operating in the United States that would "transfer the security of Israeli flights worldwide, as airlines like El Al [Israel Airlines] want, to the hands of the state."

Suspicious Items Were Headed For Chicago Synagogues

"Hey, look at me!

Look at ME!

I'm a suspicious package!

I don't actually do anything, don't actually contain any explosive or anything dangerous, certainly nothing that would attract the attention of the sniffer dogs, but I have this great coating of fake spray-on Christmas tree snow and a dead tuner circuit board from an old TV set to make me look really scary to the idiots at ABCNNBBCSFOX who have been paid by Israel to report without question the booga booga the way Israel wants it reported!

And if you don't think Israel is behind this, check out all the comments about nuking Mecca that have been added to the story.

Declassified: Massive Israeli manipulation of US media exposed

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kureFeGmoDI>

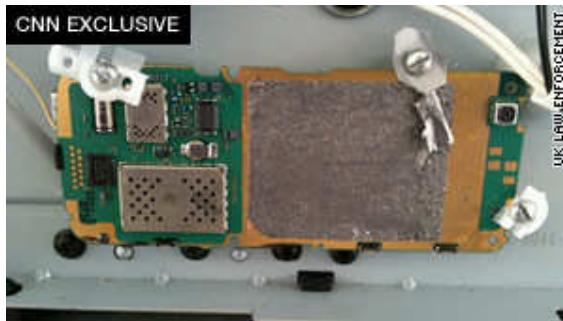

Emirates Flight 201 Being Escorted By Fighter Jets Into JFK Airport

"If that plane has a bomb, we are prepared to shoot that passenger plane down the moment that bomb dares to explode!!-- Official White House Spouse

Osama bin Laden's cartridge also had a circuit board attached!

<http://edition.cnn.com/2010/US/10/29/security.concern/index.html>

The package had white powder on it as well as wires and a circuit board, a law-enforcement source said someone shipped it from Sana, Yemen to Chicago, Illinois.

The card, clearly absent the ribbon cable the foil indicates must be there, looks like the tuner card from an 80s vintage TV.

I've had prop people fired for better fakes than this!

Plane searches a pathetic bid to re-sell Jewish victimhood

http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/39911024/ns/us_news-airliner_security

In Chicago, synagogues were warned to be on security alert Friday as a result of the investigation.

This non-story of the plane searches is starting to come into focus.

We now know that the "suspicious" toner cartridge found with white powder and wires sticking out of it is a hoax, as there was no explosive involved.

So how was this "device" found?

Obviously bomb sniffing dogs would not have indicated a problem, and we know that the authorities are not in the habit of opening up every single package on every single UPS cargo flight every single day at every single airport.

So, someone put the British authorities onto this package.

It was INTENDED to be found.

This is just another fake terror/hate crime for Israel to wave around at those who wonder just why it is that Israel can attack and kill Americans in international waters with impunity.

Cargo plane bomb alert: 'ink cartridge bomb' found on plane in London

The device, which it has been claimed was made from a manipulated ink cartridge, was found aboard a United Parcel Service (UPS) flight at East Midlands airport, en route from Yemen to Chicago.

It reportedly had wires and white powder attached to it.

Authorities in Britain are now saying that the "device" is non-explosive.

Which means it is a media-diverting hoax intended to wave terrorists at stupid Americans to keep them from realizing that the mortgage-backed securities fraud has wrecked this nation far more thoroughly than Osama could ever dream of, even if he hadn't died in 2001!

White powder and wires?

That's a stage prop-not a bomb.

If there was no explosive, how was it found or detected?

No bomb sniffing dog would have bothered with it.

How did the authorities know to open up that particular box?

Anonymous phone tip?

This is a setup, and a rather obvious one.

Awww, forget about the bank fraud that crashed the housing markets, we got BOOGA BOOGA for you today!

Test results for explosives were negative, one law enforcement official told the Associated Press, but officials remained concerned.

The flight had been bound for Chicago but was at a British airport when the cartridge was spotted.

The Transportation Security Administration earlier said that cargo flights that landed safely at Newark and Philadelphia airports were being searched after "reports of potentially suspicious items onboard."

As of this moment, planes are being searched at four different airports.

However, the original cause for the alert, a "suspicious" toner cartridge, has been found to be non-explosive.

Yet the TV news is talking about nothing but this latest "terror" threat, apparently grateful they have an excuse not to talk about the massive mortgage-backed security fraud by the major banks that plunged this nation into depression!

But after all the media sturm und drang, absolutely nothing has been found, No bombs, no drugs, no illegal immigrants...

This is a non-story in which nothing has actually happened, hyped to attract attention away from the banking scandal that has ruined all of our lives.

If ABCNNBBCSFOX wants to know why their viewership is in decline relative to the alternative media, this is a classic example.

All-clear after bomb threat at Phila. Int'l Airport

Investigators say a bomb threat directed at a plane at Philadelphia International Airport has been determined to be unfounded.

Desperate stunt to distract the media from the banking scandals.

News Brief: Yemen Officials: Packages didn't Come From Yemen

Despite the current alert over "packages that were designed to harm U.S. synagogues", Yemen officials insist that no U.S. bound cargo planes even left the country in the past 48 hours.

<http://www.thetruthseeker.co.uk/article.asp?ID=13705>

Yemen Officials: Packages didn't Come From Yemen

With the eyes of the world on Yemen and officials pointing the finger squarely at the al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP) group based in the nation's south, Yemen's government is cautioning against jumping to conclusions, and denying that the bomb plot packages came from Yemen at all.

"No UPS or DHL cargo packages heading to Chicago through Yemen took place in the last 48 hours," insisted Yemenia Airways' Air Cargo Director Mohammed Shaibah.

Officials with the nation's Civil Aviation Authority insisted that no US cargo aircrafts left the nation at all in the past 48 hours.

All reports have indicated that the packages were marked as having come from Yemen.

It is unclear exactly how to reconcile this with the Yemeni government's claims that they couldn't possibly have originated there.

The various “suspicious packages” included some which tested positive for explosives and others with included printed circuit boards and wires.

The exact nature of the plot remains a mystery as officials are still examining all of the devices and running tests on the apparent explosive payloads.

Whatever the case, it seems clear the Yemeni government is eager to deflect attention.

LIST OF AIRPORTS SERVED BY UPS. - YEMEN ISN'T ON THERE. (PDF)

<http://www.ups.com/aircargo/using/services/airports/internationalAirports.pdf>

UPS WEBSITE CONFIRMS UPS DOES NOT DO BUSINESS IN YEMEN!

<http://www.upslogisticstech.com/pub/worldwide/EMEA/>

Post this link to the UPS website everywhere so people can see for themselves that the claim of a terror bomb on a UPS flight from Yemen is a total hoax!

Bomb Scare is BS

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=hmA5tHzOR0U&feature=youtu.be>

Suspicious Package to U.S. not from Yemen Yemenia Air Cargo Director

<http://www.yemenpost.net/Detail123456789.aspx?ID=3&SubID=2705&MainCat=3>

Mohammed al-Shaibah, Air Cargo Director for Yemenia Airways said to Yemen Post, "No UPS cargo plane left Yemeni lands over the land 48 hours.

These accusations are false and baseless."

He added, "No UPS or DHL cargo packages heading to Chicago through Yemen took place in the last 48 hours as well."

"All packages are checked very carefully in Yemen, and there is no evidence to prove that this package came through Yemen."

UAE rejects US claims on Flight 201

The United Arab Emirates' Civil Aviation Authority has rejected claims that a US-bound Emirates' flight from Dubai contained "suspicious" parcels from Yemen.

Fighter jets were scrambled on Friday to accompany an Emirates plane into New York's JFK airport after a security alert, US media reported.

Emirati authorities, however, said flight 201 carried no 'suspicious' cargo from Yemen as claimed by US-Canadian military agency NORAD.

UAE officials rejected the claim and said the plane was not a source of threat.

Yemeni Government Arrest Two Females for Sending Suspicious packages to U.S.

According to a senior governmental official who spoke to Yemen Post on anonymity, Yemeni security forces arrested two Yemeni women under suspicion of sending the packages to the United States.

The Yemeni official claims that the two women sent the packages in order to damage the reputation of Yemen and not on links of Al-Qaeda.

He denied that Al-Qaeda had links to the packages that were sent.

Other stories indicate that these women were arrested purely on the basis of suspected associations with Al Qaeda.

There is no actual evidence of involvement in the toner cartridge hoax.

Can we invade Yemen now, please? Can we? Huh?
Can we? Pretty please?

http://news.yahoo.com/s/ap/20101029/ap_on_re_mi_ea/airport_s_suspicious_packages_yemen_threat

Yemen Officials: Packages Didn't Come From Yemen

With the eyes of the world on Yemen and officials pointing the finger squarely at the al-Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula (AQAP) group based in the nation's south, Yemen's government is cautioning against jumping to conclusions, and denying that the bomb plot packages came from Yemen at all.

No U.S. Commercial or Private Plane left Yemen to the U.S. over last 48 hours Yemeni Official

A Yemeni official told Yemen Post that no U.S. cargo aircraft of any American company flew out of Yemen over the last 48 hours.

"Whether UPS, Fed Ex, DHL or any other U.S. cargo company left Yemen over the last 48 hours."

Cartridges never sounded so dangerous!

<http://theuglytruth.wordpress.com/2010/10/30/cartridges-never-sounded-so-dangerous/>

One can only laugh at the desperation shown when a government resorts to "terrorist threats" whenever it needs to garner enough support for its sinister plans.

Propagandists still trying to recover from "Yemen UPS plane" gaff!

The explosive found hidden in a package on a plane in the United Arab Emirates on Friday may have traveled on passenger planes to get there, airline officials said Sunday.

"May have" means they don't actually have any information.

They are guessing trying to come up with a new cover story that the blog-o-sphere won't hand back to them in a body bag!

Hanan al Samawi, woman busted in Yemen for role in cargo plane bomb plot, was 'set up': lawyer http://www.nydailynews.com/news/world/2010/10/31/2010-10-31_hanan_al_samawi_yemen_woman_busted_in_mailbomb_plot_was_set_up_lawyer.html

According to NBC News, Hanan al Samawi's lawyer claims she was nabbed by authorities because her telephone number was on the packages loaded with explosives.

However, the attorney argues that the fifth-year computer science student was not involved and the phone number was intentionally left to make her a suspect.

What is really insulting is that whoever set up this hoax really thought that it would never occur to us that an intelligent woman, sharp enough to be a medical student, would probably not put her own phone number on such a package. They really did think you were that dumb!

FALSE FLAGS THAT GO BUMP IN THE NIGHT

<http://desertpeace.wordpress.com/2010/10/31/false-flags-that-go-bump-in-the-night/>

WHY NOW?

WHY A FABRICATED 'TERROR ATTACK' just days before the US election??

WHY AN ATTEMPT TO CREATE HYSTERIA WITHIN THE JEWISH COMMUNITY ITSELF???

When my son was about three years old he had an imaginary friend.

This was not a cause for alarm as it seemed to be the norm with children his age.

In fact, we often played along with his fantasy, setting a place at the dinner table for 'Ghostie'.

We sometimes see adults 'playing' at the same game, only then it is not the norm....

I speak specifically of the United States government and groups such as the ADL.

The former would have us believe that there actually is a group known as Al Quaida and that they are a part of a world terrorist network.

THIS report is typical of the hysteria which is being distributed in the Western press.

Jewish extremist groups would have us believe that there is an anti-Semite lurking under every Jewish bed in the United States.

Following is their solution to this....

To put it bluntly, President Obama hasn't been the most beloved leader of the United States by sections of the Jewish community abroad.

Remember the video 'Feeling the Hate in Jerusalem'?

It was banned by YouTube for portraying too true a picture of zionism..... but you can still see it HERE.

Combining the overactive imaginations pictured above, I go back to the title of this post, 'False Flags That Go Bump In The Night'

WHY NOW?

WHY A FABRICATED 'TERROR ATTACK' just days before the US election??

WHY AN ATTEMPT TO CREATE HYSTERIA WITHIN THE JEWISH COMMUNITY ITSELF???

What Really Happened dealt with this issue and came up with some thought provoking material.....

THE UPS TERROR FLIGHT FROM YEMEN THAT NEVER WAS!

Obama's "scare the Americans into voting Democratic" plan is already in trouble.

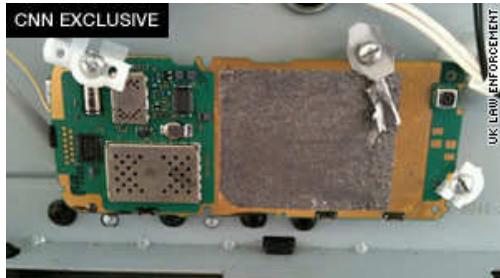

The official story on Friday October 29th was that an unnamed ally issued a warning for British authorities to be on the lookout for a suspicious package sent from Yemen to Great Britain on a UPS flight.

A search of the UPS flighty on the ground in Britain yielded a package containing a printer toner cartridge sprayed with a white substance that looks like plastic Christmas tree snow.

To make the “toner cartridge of death” look even scarier, a circuit board was attached to the outside with wires.

Careful analysis of the card itself suggests it is a circuit card from a TV set, most likely the tuner, circa 1980s

Note carefully there is no battery to power this object, nor were any detonators found.

The initial reports of the toner cartridge reported no explosives were found in it.

Of course, Obama claimed exactly the opposite, which left the BBC struggling to placate the President while not allowing themselves to look like they were changing the original story to do it!

But the story gets better!

The original claim was that the suspicious package originated in Yemen and flew to Britain on an aircraft owned by UPS, and the media showed us all the video of a UPS aircraft being stopped and searched on the runway in Britain.

But there is a problem.

There are no UPS aircraft flying in and out of Yemen!

UPS own website (from before the so-called terror incident) does not list Yemen as one of their service regions.

A PDF file (which includes the history of the document from weeks ago) listing of all the international airports the UPS aircraft fleet flies to does not list Yemen as a destination!

In short, there was not and could not be a UPS aircraft flying out of Yemen.

UPS uses a subcontractor, Sun Tours, to handle shipping in and out of Yemen.

Sun Tours sends their shipments via Yemenia Air, and Yemenia Air's Cargo Director reports there were no shipments sent through Yemen to Chicago for the 48 hours prior to the "discovery" of the toner cartridge in Britain.

A second claim that a flight from Dubais carried packages from Yemen has been refuted by the United Arab Emirates Civil Aviation Authority.

In short a toner cartridge that cannot explode shows up on a UPS jet which could not have come from Yemen, and Obama pounds it for all its worth trying to save the Democrats next Tuesday.

Frankly I think Americans should be outraged not that Obama tried such a stunt, but that after all the times Bush was caught using terror scares for political gain that Obama thinks you are all stupid enough to fall for it again!

If tonight's polls are accurate, you weren't and you didn't and Obama may have just screwed his own party to the point where they are all praying for Diebold to save them!

Bottom line is the UPS Website has confirmed that it does NOT do business in Yemen!

Do the 'actual terrorists' involved in this bogus 'attack' really believe that the world at large would have swallowed their BS before examining the facts?

I'm not one into conspiracy theories, but this does not look like a theory to me at all!

It's pure unadulterated BS!

Bombs in U.S.-bound parcels from Yemen - Obama

WASHINGTON/LONDON (Reuters) - Security officials in Britain and Dubai intercepted parcel bombs being sent from Yemen to the United States in a "credible terrorist threat," President Barack Obama said on Friday.

He said the parcels were bound for "two places of Jewish worship in Chicago."

Suspicion fell on al Qaeda in the Arabian Peninsula, based in Yemen, which took responsibility for a failed plot to blow up a U.S. passenger jet on Christmas Day in 2009.

"Initial examinations of those packages has determined that they do apparently contain explosive material," Obama told reporters in a televised briefing, calling it "a credible terrorist threat against our country."

The White House said earlier that "both of these packages originated from Yemen" and that Obama was notified of the threat on Thursday night.

One of the suspicious packages was found on a United Parcel Service cargo plane at East Midlands Airport, about 160 miles (260 km) north of London.

The other was discovered at a FedEx Corp facility in Dubai.

"As an additional safety measure, FedEx has embargoed all shipments originating from Yemen," said Maury Lane, a spokesman for the world's largest cargo airline.

"The package never was on a FedEx aircraft. We don't fly to Yemen."

British police said an item found on the UPS plane was sent for further testing.

CNN said it was an ink toner cartridge converted into a bomb.

Before Obama spoke, an FBI source had told Reuters that initial tests in Britain revealed no explosives.

An official source in the United Arab Emirates said "an explosive device was found in the package that originated in Yemen" and that the parcel was similar to the one found in Britain.

In the United States, UPS planes were checked in New Jersey and Philadelphia.

The Transportation Security Administration said they were searched "out of an abundance of caution."

U.S. officials and some analysts speculated that the suspicious parcels may have been a test of cargo screening procedures and the reaction of security officials.

"One possibility, if this is terrorism related, is that this may be a trial run," one U.S. official said.

Intelligence about the possible plot had come from an ally abroad, the official said, without elaborating.

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security said it was stepping up aviation security measures as a result of the scare.

The British government said it was "too soon to say" whether it would follow suit but was "urgently considering" what steps to take about freight coming from Yemen.

The man accused of the failed Christmas Day bombing, Umar Farouk Abdulmutallab, has told U.S. investigators he got the device and training from al Qaeda militants in Yemen.

I think we have proved our case in the last 41 Pages

US President Barrack Obama is a Liar!

White House Press Secretary is a Liar!

The Zionist Jew Controlled Western Media are taking the piss out of all of us!

41 Pages of Evidence now proves these people using False Flag Terrorist Attacks and Staged Events Against Us "We The People"